Love yourself first

Life is like a box of chocolates, you just don’t know what you’re gonna get’ wise words from Forrest Gump and never a truer word for 2019. It would seem that within monumental highs there have been equally monumental lows. This isn’t limited to me or the college but seems to generally reflect 2019 (soon to be known as the year that no one wants to talk about!!)

It would be easy to be critical and embrace the hardship last year has brought and allow misery to overtake our lives. It sounds contrite that every hardship just needs time, and this too shall pass — but it does. It is also important to see that each time we work through something difficult there are positives — we learn things about ourselves we didn’t know, we grow in confidence, we accept our limitations, we choose where to invest our time and energy and often in losing, be it friends or loved ones, we find our self-worth.

In the face of adversity, we surprise ourselves with our strength and courage, those that love us appear and reinforce our place in their lives, and the kindness of strangers replaces damage done by those whom you trusted.

In everything, there is a chance to learn and a chance to grow. The positive for me is that 2019 has brought resilience. It has allowed me to take a stock and re-evaluate what is important and what I need to be the best version of myself. And in doing that the people around me will get a better version of me too. I have to love myself first.

One big step I have been taking is studying at University. The program is online and I generally have the discipline of a three-year-old in a lolly shop! This study (partly terrifying) has seen me develop skills that I would not have believed I had. That my motto of loving myself first and knowing this educational investment would be good for me, has made me challenge myself and think differently. Is it easy? No. Have I wanted to give up? Yes. Have I wasted many hours looking at cat videos? Also, yes. Do I feel accomplished and proud? Very much yes.

People are amazing, we have the capacity to transform our lives, and this transformation can only happen when you love yourself first. So, don’t waste another minute — love yourself first, you are totally worth it.

Best wishes,
Sarah Watterson, CEO

Privacy and Refund Policy

Once we have processed payment for a student enrolment, South Coast Colleges only issues a refund under the following conditions:

- A course is cancelled by the Organisation
- A student withdraws up to 7 days before the course commences.
  If a student withdraws from a course less than 7 days prior to course commencing, a refund will only be made if we have sufficient numbers to run the course.
- An administration withdrawal fee applies – currently set at $25 per course withdrawal.

There are no refunds made after a course has commenced.

While we make every effort to ensure a positive learning outcome, we cannot accept responsibility for the student’s own abilities and application. We cannot be responsible for changes in a student’s circumstances. Once a course has commenced there will be no refunds or credit notes issued. If the student is paying their fees via instalment options, any outstanding fees are still required to be paid regardless of the student’s continuing attendance.
